Privacy Policy

Effective: April 20, 2026

Privacy policies aren't known for being the most entertaining reading material on the world wide web, however, they are important; increasingly so in a world driven by data. Here at YNAB, we love to entertain, but we take your privacy seriously. Being entrusted with your personal information is a privilege, and a responsibility that we don't take lightly.

Similar to how feeling in control of your money can bring great peace of mind, that same philosophy applies to your personal information. That's why our intent is to make YNAB's Privacy Policy as clear and as easy to understand as possible. You should read this entire Privacy Policy, but here are our key points:

✓ Our money comes from you, not ads in our service. As a consumer-focused subscription business, we rely on your subscriptions to offer our Services.

✓ Generally, we use the information we collect about you to correspond with you, perform our agreements with you, carry out marketing and advertising activities, and perform our

✓ We talk a lot about the importance of trusting your spending plan, and that goes beyond knowing that the calculations are correct. Your Financial Data is private and we help you keep it that way. The rest of this is a legal document, and it reads like a legal document. (That's what our lawyers want us to do.) We've included a table of contents and summaries at the top of most sections in an effort to make it easier to understand, but it's critical that you read the entire document.

Overview

This Privacy Policy (the "Policy") describes the data protection practices of You Need A Budget LLC (d/b/a YNAB) and its affiliates ("we," "us," or "our"). The Policy applies to our websites and applications that link to this Policy, including our spending management apps, software, website, and products ("Product") and the YNAB.com website, as well as related online and offline services thereto, and any services, transactions, or engagement you might have with us (collectively, the "Services").

We may change this Policy from time to time. We will make the revised Policy accessible through the Services, so you should review the Policy periodically. You can know if the Policy has changed since the last time you reviewed it by checking the "Last Modified" date at the top of this Policy. If we make a material change to this Policy, we will provide you with notice in accordance with legal requirements. By continuing to use the Services, you are confirming that you have read and understood the latest version of this Policy.

If you have any questions or concerns about this Policy, please contact us at privacy@ynab.com. You may also contact us using the chat function on our website or on our mobile apps.

- When you choose to directly link financial accounts to YNAB, we receive certain information about those financial accounts, including account balances, transactions and holdings.
- Your location when you record a transaction via the Services, including general and precise location (in accordance with your device settings and location permissions). Precise location, if enabled, helps the Services remember the location where you are when you record a transaction, so that the Services may suggest that payee when you record another transaction near that same location in the future. "General" location information means information to identify the city and state in which your device is located based on its IP address. YNAB does not use precise or general geolocation information to show you promotions or advertisements based on your location. Please note that precise geolocation information is considered "sensitive personal information" under certain privacy laws, and we process this information in accordance with applicable legal requirements. You can disable precise geolocation tracking on your device.
- Photos and their associated metadata, that you choose to upload and attach to transactions. The photos feature is optional. By choosing to upload photos, you consent to our collection and processing of those photos and their metadata; you can withdraw consent at any time by deleting your photos. The types of photo-related data that may be collected and retained by us may include, without limitation, (1) image files and their content, (2) embedded metadata such as, without limitation, timestamps, device information, photo orientation, geolocation, and camera setting, and (3) any personal information visible in the photos, which may include, without limitation, information contained on a receipt and other personal information visible in the photos, such as likenesses. - To provide you with customer support or service offerings, including responding to and resolving your inquiries and requests via email or text-based chat. We may use AI-powered tools, including chatbots provided by third-party service providers, to assist with initial responses, perform specific actions on your behalf with your consent, and connect you with human support specialists. When you request assistance from our customer support team with respect to importing third-party financial account data, to allow a customer support representative to review a limited amount of data from your accounts, including account names and recent transactions for the sole purpose of facilitating technical implementation of the account aggregation services. - If you apply to and/or participate in the Coaching Program, we collect additional categories of information which we use to evaluate your application and determine eligibility, to administer the Coaching Program, to facilitate interaction among participants, to communicate with you, and to improve upon the Coaching Program's content, structure, and delivery. This information may include, application information (including your name, email address, mailing address, professional background and/or work history, responses to application questions, cohorts that you have applied to previously, and the cohort you are selected for, if applicable), pre-assessment results (including responses to and scores on the YNAB knowledge assessment), invoice information via our payment service provider, course participation data (such as attendance data, course progress, community posts and interactions, practice session completion records, and final exam results), and recordings from the live course sessions (which may include your likeness and/or voice, if you come on camera and/or unmute to participate). We may record the course sessions for other participants in the cohort who are unable to attend a live session or want to watch it again, and keep the recording for 21 days. If you do not wish to be recorded, you may disable your camera and microphone.
- If you participate in a live YNAB workshop, we collect registration data (including names and email addresses), session date and time, and the names of attendees. Additionally, the workshop may be recorded and saved in our on-demand library for 21 days. We record our workshops so that participants can reference it at a later time, and for those who register but may miss the session. During such workshops, if you participate by unmuting your microphone to speak or ask a question, or if you participate in the chat, your voice and/or the display name you use will be part of the saved recording. If you prefer to not be recorded, you can watch the recording after the live session ends.

In some cases, we will tell you when we need to collect certain information to provide you with certain services (for example, we may need certain information to access your YNAB account so our support team can help you troubleshoot an issue). If you choose not to provide such information, we may not be able to provide the services you have requested.

Notice of Right to Opt Out of Sales of Personal Information and Processing/Sharing of Personal Information for Targeted Advertising Purposes.

As described in our Cookie Policy, we have incorporated cookies and similar technology from certain third parties into our Services to provide you with more relevant and tailored ads regarding our services and to analyze the performance of our ads and the types of consumers who see and interact with them. We may also share certain identifiers, like a hashed email address, with third-party platforms so that those platforms can display YNAB ads to interested audiences. These technologies allow us and our partners to serve tailored YNAB ads on other platforms, and to limit how often we show ads to consumers who have already subscribed to YNAB.

Although these advertising activities are a common way for companies like YNAB to promote their products and services, certain laws categorize these activities as "selling" personal information or "sharing" or "processing" personal information for targeted advertising purposes – even though we never provide information in exchange for money.

We want to be clear that we do not under any circumstances "sell" the information you provide through the Product or "share/process" it for targeted advertising purposes, including Financial Data. We also want to note that we do not knowingly "sell" the personal information of minors under 16 years of age, without legally-required affirmative authorization (please note that we are required to provide this disclosure in this Policy pursuant to state privacy laws).

Nevertheless, our online advertising activities targeting prospective YNAB users may be considered to be a "sale" and/or "sharing/processing" for targeted advertising purposes under the broad definitions of those terms in state privacy laws. These laws require us to make certain disclosures about these activities, which we provide below.

If you would like to opt out of our online disclosure such as through cookie and pixel technology of your personal information for purposes that could be considered "sales" for those third parties' own commercial purposes, or "sharing" for purposes of targeted advertising, please fill out the Data Subject Rights Request Form or select "Your Privacy Choices" in the Services, and follow the instructions. Please note that if you have a legally-recognized browser-based opt-out preference signal turned on via your device browser, we recognize such preference in accordance with applicable law.

Notice of Financial Incentives.

We may offer opportunities to receive certain services or benefits, including money, gifts, or "swag", to participate in surveys, sign up for communications, or other similar incentives, which may require the provision of personal information, such as registering for an account and answering surveys or providing additional feedback or information. Such opportunities could be considered a financial incentive under applicable law (each, an "Incentive Program"). Your participation in Incentive Programs is purely voluntary. When you participate in an Incentive Program, you agree to the terms of that Incentive Program, and may revoke your participation depending on the Incentive Program.

Right to Restrict Processing

You have the right to request that we restrict the processing of your personal data in certain circumstances. This means we can store your data but not use or process it further. You may exercise this right, for example, if:

- You contest the accuracy of your personal data and we are verifying its accuracy;
